Annual Management Report of Fund Performance as at December 31, 2024

RGP Global Infrastructure Fund

Management Discussion of Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The Fund's investment objective is to generate long-term capital appreciation and some income by investing primarily in equity securities of companies throughout the world that are involved in, or that indirectly benefit from, the development, maintenance, servicing, or management of infrastructure.

- It selects companies that derive a substantial portion of their business activity from airports, hospitals, oil and gas storage and transportation, ports, tolls roads, railways, real estate, telecommunications, and utilities.
- It may invest up to 20% of the Fund's assets in fixed-income securities.
- It does not intend to invest more than 50% of its net assets in emerging market securities.

ESG factors are integrated into the investment management process and taken into account in the sub-manager's analyses. These factors have a limited impact on the securities selected or the Fund's investment decisions.

Risk

The Fund's risk level is medium. The overall level of risk of investing in the Fund remains as discussed in the Simplified Prospectus and has not significantly increased or decreased as a result of operations during the period. Accordingly, the Fund also remains suitable for the investors described in the Simplified Prospectus.

Results

The Fund's A class returned -3.7% after fees and expenses, for the period from October 21, 2024 to December 31, 2024. The net returns of the other classes of this Fund are similar to those of Class A, with the exception of differences attributable to fee structures. For class performance and long-term Fund performance, please refer to the "Past Performance" section of this report. The portfolio's benchmark returned -2.1% for the period from October 21, 2024 to December 31, 2024. The index is composed of 100% of the MSCI ACWI (All Countries) Infrastructure Index in Canadian dollars, net of fees.

Market Overview

Stock markets mostly delivered positive returns during financial year ended December 31, 2024. The MSCI World Index returned 29.4% in Canadian dollars over this period. Political uncertainties and armed conflicts abroad did not overly perturb investors, but they did contribute to the remarkable rise in the price of gold. The S&P 500 index, which groups the largest US companies, reached new highs again in December, demonstrating to the resilience of stock markets despite a complex economic environment. The technology sector particularly stood out in the wake of the artificial intelligence craze. Paradoxically, the strength of US economic growth did not allow cyclical sectors such as materials and energy to stand out. Their returns lagged far behind those of the communications, technology, and consumer discretionary sectors.

The performance of bond investments was more mixed, following divergent movements in the forward yield curves. Shorter maturities fared better than longer ones. Credit spreads separating riskier corporate bonds from those issued by governments remained at very low levels, a sign that investors had little fear of future defaults by corporate issuers.

The Canadian economy proved less vigorous than that of our the United States. The Bank of Canada cut its key rate before June 5th, 2024, in response to signals of economic slowdown and progress in its fight against inflation. The yield to maturity on 10-year US Treasury bonds exceeded 4.5% at year-end, 1.3% higher than the Canadian equivalent. The Canadian dollar also depreciated, especially in Q4, when it lost 6% of its value against the US dollar.

On the global scene, China and the major developed countries, openly engaged in a race to build and secure their microprocessor supply chains, continued their efforts in this direction. Chip manufacturers and their equipment suppliers benefited from the situation.

In the second half of the year, the results of the US presidential elections and expectations of protectionist trade policies and corporate tax cuts influenced the financial markets. In parallel with the activity on the political scene, major companies, particularly in the financial and technology sectors, reported good quarterly results. The tech giants continued to dominate the indices, such that a third of the US stock market now rests on seven companies. This increased concentration makes the US stock market more vulnerable to fluctuations in the performance of these few companies.

At the end of this period, the U.S., Canadian, and developed European and Asian stock market indices were up 35.8%, 21.7%, and 13.2%, respectively over 12 months, when reported in Canadian dollars. The Canadian bond composite returned 4.2%, compared with 1.5% for the global bond composite, hedged in Canadian dollars.

Factors impacting performance:

The Fund slightly underperformed its benchmark. In addition to expenses, the manager believes that several factors had a positive or negative effect on the Fund's performance. It is appropriate to evaluate the various factors by considering, on the one hand, the impact on the Fund's absolute returns and, on the other, the impact on relative returns, i.e. in comparison with those of the benchmark index.

Factors that contributed positively to performance included allocation to the industrial sector and stock selection within this sector. Airport stocks performed particularly well, and the selection of companies in this industry proved judicious.

Factors that detracted from performance were sector, geography and stock selection. Canadian companies in the communications sector were impacted by higher interest rates and wireless competition. Stock selection in the energy sector, particularly in emerging countries, was detrimental to returns, both absolute and relative to the index.

Impact of environmental, social and governance strategies:

The manager integrates ESG factors with a focus on governance into the investment management process of this fund. However, these factors have a limited impact on the securities selected or the Fund's investment decisions.

Changes to the portfolio:

The manager has not made any significant changes to the portfolio or any changes that would be outside the normal scope of the Fund's strategies. The manager carries out transactions to take advantage of market movements and adjust allocations between securities, industries, sectors and geography.

Recent Developments

The portfolio manager believes there is a high level of uncertainty in the market. He also considers that unprecedented shocks in the market have posed challenges for many companies. In his opinion, geopolitical and economic risks have a greater impact on the markets.

Firstly, the intentions of the American government regarding the increase in trade tariffs are likely to create uncertainty, at least in the short term, to international trade. Among other things, this could result in higher input costs for American companies, reduced sales for international companies, and higher prices for consumers. It could also hinder the deployment of capital and investment projects. application of trade tariffs by the American government remains uncertain. However, the application of tariffs remains uncertain.

Still with regards to the political situation in the United States, the reassessment of government institutions and the desire to cut budgetary spending are destabilizing measures, although they also represent a potential for favorable returns. The reaction of the market to the effects of these measures will only become apparent over time. Currency prices and risk premiums on long-term bonds could nevertheless experience more volatility than usual in the coming months. Future events and their influence on the markets remain uncertain at all times.

On March 30, 2025, Mr. Gilles Lemieux and Mr. Pierre Rousseau were appointed Chairman and member of the independent review committee, respectively, following the termination of Mr. Michel Desjardins' mandate.

During the period and pursuant to applicable securities legislation, the Fund relied on a standing instruction from the IRC in connection with inter-fund transactions, where securities may be sold to, or purchased from, another fund managed by the manager. Under the IRC's standing instructions, the manager must act, for each of these transactions, in accordance with related policies and procedures and applicable law. <sup>3</sup> Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase/decrease from operations is based on the weighted average number of units outstanding over the accounting period.

<sup>7</sup> The management expense ratio is based on total expenses for the stated period (excluding distributions, commissions, other portfolio transaction costs and withholding taxes), including applicable taxes, and a portion of underlying funds' expenses (mutual funds and exchange traded funds) where applicable, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of the daily average net asset value during the period.
